Maine the Battle-Field.

There is no manner of doubt that the great liquor dealers of New York and Boston are splitting off a renegade expedition to carry the State of Maine this fall, in opposition to the present liquor law; and that the funds of a million of dollars, and to have been raised by them, is freely used to that end. A hundred thousand dollars would be deemed by them a moderate sum to pay for establishing a law in Maine to the State which has adopted prohibition, and gave the name and impetus to the "Maine Law." If they could overthrow that statute in this State, and all other States the battle would be won for the liquor dealers throughout the Nation. There can be no doubt whatever, therefore, that the liquor dealers' money is being freely used in the State, at the present moment, for the defeat of the Republican party, which is the only one which stands firmly by the policy of prohibition. Money from this source is probably devoted to the cheap or gratuitous circulation of papers which rabidly opposing the Republican party, and giving their influence to the success of the Party and the Maine liquor

Report of the Committee of Investigation

The committee of citizens appointed to investigate the Portland riot, and the report of the committee is published in the daily

A Poetical Letter.

To the Hon. Isaac C. Adams, Postmaster of Bangor and Editor of the Democrat.

In the number of your paper you speak of the "underground personally," a reference to my connection with the convention recently held at Philadelphia, and in a way as to impute to me a position and purpose.

As to the latter, I am a plain man of fact and of simple life.

My experience and observation in political affairs has taught me that the ascendancy of the Democratic party has been maintained not by building successfully for the votes of foreigners and slaveholders. So long continued and systematic has this course become, that Popery and Aton to slavery seemed united in the effort to sustain and strengthen each other.

This union I regarded as the most dangerous of all evils which threatened our political mat-ternity and the cause of human freedom.

At the Philadelphia Convention I found that through the close enmeshing and subsequence of the New York delegation, seeking to secure the slave power, the American Order, in National Convention, was sold both to Popery and to slavery. I labored with zeal and with what is usually called command to prevent this result, because I knew very well that neither the American Order nor the people of Maine would sanction any such thing: it was not the enactment to which they had been invited.

I knew that the climax of slavery aggression in the repeal of the Missouri Compromise which violated the plighted faith of the nation would not be effected by a long series of years and at the same time lose the ill-considerable slavery over all the territories of the United States, on account of its political turbulence and moral impurity, but, simply and appropriately, around the people of the free have gained a personal advantage out of the political inequality of slavery, are now known
